ASSA ABLOY Security Doors Shows Proven Track Record with London's Transport Network

"Our experience working with London Underground provided us with the ideal foundation for supporting our working partners within various Crossrail projects for new Elizabeth line stations.

Each contract brought its own individual challenges, but from the very beginning we worked closely with the architects and contractors involved to understand their requirements. This meant we could provide specialist and tailored solutions that met their exact needs."

Challenge

Companies: Transport for London and Crossrail Limited
Segment: Transport
Property type: Railway stations
Location: London

ASSA ABLOY Security Doors has supplied and installed security doors to a series of high-profile contracts with Transport for London and Crossrail Limited.

Each doorset had to be fully compliant to achieve the latest standards and meet the specialist needs of each environment. Factors to consider included fire, acoustics, air tightness, high-security and pressure resistance.

Solution

Solutions were carefully chosen from Security Doors' Powershield and Prima steel door ranges including cross corridor doors for high traffic fire escape routes, and pivoted fire rated platform doors to conceal station equipment rooms. Decorative finishes such as vitreous enamel, stainless-steel and bronze cladding helped complement the aesthetics of the surroundings on doors that required a finishing touch.

ASSA ABLOY Security Doors also installed many of the doorsets in challenging conditions, with the work taking place underground, with tight access and with restricted working hours.
